ACADEMIC . . . 14

ACTIVITIES . . . 32

Back to Normal

From the beginning, 1966 was a year of change—a return to normal. After three years of "shift" classes, North Side was again in session on the usual 8 o'clock to 3 o'clock basis.

A decreased enrollment facilitated the return to normal. With 500 fewer students, it was no longer necessary to get students in and out of the building as soon as possible to make room for others.

The smaller enrollment brought several lesser, but to the students, equally significant changes. With fewer students, facilities were less crowded. Classes no longer met in athletic exercise rooms, or homerooms in the gym. Crowds in the stairways thinned, and the rush for a table in the cafeteria was not nearly so desperate.

Improvements in the school abounded. The intramural program expanded, and a new exploratory teaching course was added. The selection of extracurricular activities broadened with the addition of new clubs and seminars; wrestling and swim meets stretched the athletic schedule.

With fewer students and a normal time schedule, the scholastic attitude and image of all North Side improved.

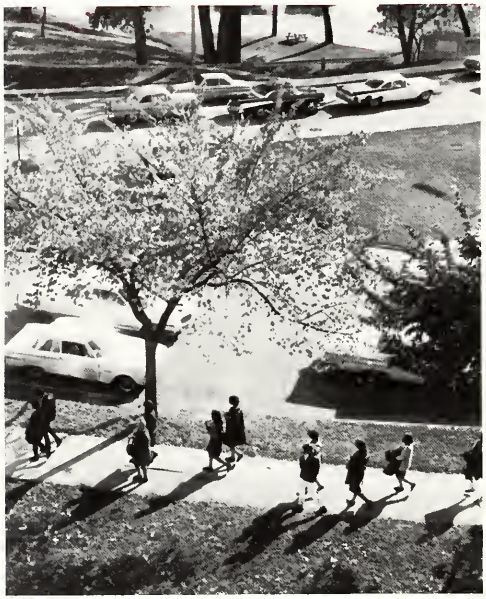
In Normality, There Is Room ■ ■ ■



Three o'clock . . . school's over . . . time to go home.

Although haunted by warnings against poor study habits, Earl Gleason yields to the enticing call of Spring.

Five hundred fewer students brought North much closer to the capacity enrollment of 1,500 for which it had been built thirty-nine years ago. Facilities were still crowded, but not to the extent of recent years.

Seniors noticed the change more than anyone else perhaps, for they had struggled through halls crowded with the 2500 enrollment of two years ago, but spent their final year with only 1975 classmates.

But more important than the physical spaciousness in many aspects was the expansion of the scholastic attitude of students and faculty alike. The school's atmosphere, because of increased space and the resultant normal scheduling, assumed an organized and purposeful manner more conducive to study.

The part-time schooling appearance necessary in previous years disappeared, and once again North Side could offer education in the most desirable fashion possible.

More Time for Friends

Students escape the crowded cafeteria for the friendly and refreshing atmosphere surrounding Mr. Softee.

As we go our separate ways, shadows of friendship formed at the Dome remain in our memories forever.

Tottering in an impromptu totem pole, the varsity cheerleaders take time out for fun during a practice session.

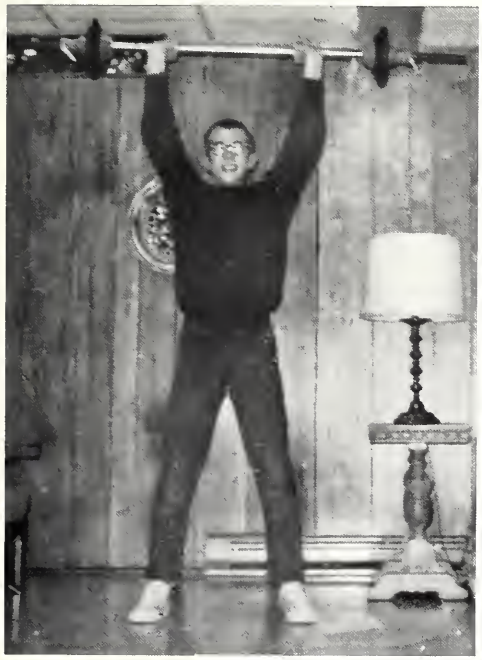
■ ■ ■ Fun ■ ■ ■

Redskins frugged, jerked, and freddied through the 1965-1966 school year. Discotheques were the greatest, and dance bands thrived. The total look was "in", and so were textured hose, Ouija boards, and James Bond.

Autumn brought 'Skins together to enjoy the usual wienie roasts, hayrides, and football games. As weather grew colder, girls snuggled into poor-boy sweaters, and boys let their hair grow into surfer or Beatle mops to keep out the chill. Skiing gained new popularity as 'Skins took to the slopes way up in Michigan or as far away as Colorado. Winter haze was further dispelled by the coming of "Batman", a pop-art TV melodrama featuring the greatest masked man since the Lone Ranger.

The melting of snow renewed the thrills of such warm weather activities as skateboarding and motorcycling. The most popular topic of conversation became prom fashions, and for seniors, graduation and that first step into the world. And for students and teachers alike, the most inviting thoughts were those of summer fun and freedom.

Willy Holloway and Davey Platt show off their gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Santa, alias Donny McClead and Sonny Schoonover.



"It's a cinch," thinks sophomore Gene Hale as he finally lifts the weights over his head.

Intensive concentration on the Ouija board reveals knowledge of the future to Judy Rice and Bob McKee.

Academics Benefit . . .

Dependable, personable, civic-minded-Heather Butler, Nancy Morrison, and Penny Winkler qualify as DAR ideal citizens.

The library provides a quiet study area for finishing up homework or researching a term paper.

Returning to 8 to 3 schedules for all students improved both academics and club participation. Four outstanding students represented North as National Merit semi-finalists, and thirteen others received letters of commendation for their high scores on this test. Because of scheduling complications, newly-formed seminars in English and social studies met either before or after school, replacing XX classes for juniors and seniors. Regular classes improved because there were fewer distractions in the halls and bells were not ringing every half hour throughout much of the day.

All classes were over at 3 o'clock, which enabled students to join more extra-curricular activities; and, as a result, club membership increased. This gave students more opportunity to improve and to exhibit their abilities. Six seniors were chosen by their classmates as best exhibiting the qualities of a true Redskin. They received the DAR and good citizenship awards.

National Merit Semi-Finalists are Mike Harper, Scott Saunders, Paul Helmke, and Kathy Nickel.

▪ ▪ ▪ Club Participation Picks Up

"Z" Club members apply the feminine touch to the makings of corsages for the sectional tournament.

Drum major Dan Raschke leads twirlers and band in a practice march around Shoaff Park.

Community Feelings Stretch ■ ■ ■

A Cappella spreads the fame of North Side to the convention of music educators at Indianapolis.

The Dome opened its doors wide to the cultural and civic opportunities of the community. The school actively supported the Christmas Bureau; sixty-four families enjoyed a finer holiday through the aid of homeroom collections of food, clothing, and toys. As a special project, homerooms sent letters and gifts to local men serving in Viet Nam.

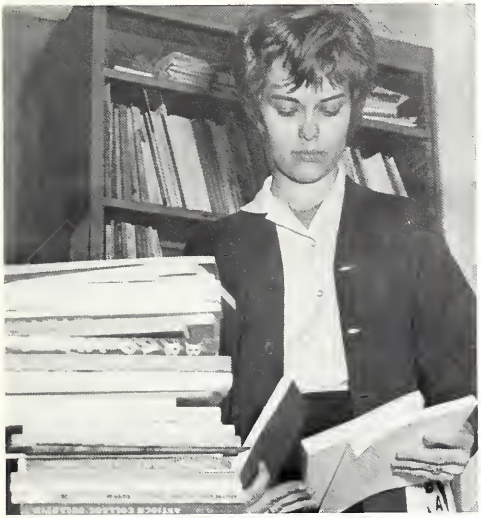
As individuals, Redskins volunteered in the Red Cross or the nursettes, and were employed at a variety of Fort Wayne businesses. Local theater and music groups also boasted North Side talent and patronage.

Pam Richard, head of the Viet Nam project, readies a Christmas package for shipment to a local man overseas.

Sacrificed lunches, donated time, and syphoned energy are personified in the hundreds of Christmas boxes brought to the traditional Basket Assembly and presented to sixty-four underpriveleged families in the community.

▪ ▪ ▪ Horizons Broaden

Scott Schaefer directs Central Catholic student leaders in a school tour as part of Student Council's attempt to better interschool relations.



Patty Moore sorts college bulletins available to seniors for use in planning future schooling and careers.

A student's knowledge of facts and ideas widens through participation in class discussion and recitation.

Normality Boosts School Spirit ■ ■ ■

Jenny Nelson, Mary Keirns, and Sandy Errington make last minute preparations for the first basketball game.

Mark Henry, Howard Doughty, and Mona Georgi apply their skills to the preparation of a spirit-boosting banner.

Red dominated as 'Skins sported their Indian spirit. Red Days coincided with pep sessions, and the student body turned out in its most vivid attire. Even stairwell bulletin boards flashed crimson after Key Club's brushwork. "How Day" debuted in red socks and pigtails, and students exchanged "Hows" instead of "Hellos".

Individual clubs offered other opportunities for displaying loyalty by selling license plates, stickers, and sweatshirts, all embellished with Redskin insignia.

True school spirit showed in other ways, too. Increasing the North Side reputation was the nationally recognized Student Council, which sponsored and encouraged beneficial activities such as the leadership program, Direction One. Individuals pitched in to clean up locker rooms and cultivate the school grounds; others devoted their free time to helping teachers and working in the various offices.

A tomahawk, some feathers, and a few fringe benefits, and Ron Mendenhall becomes chief of the Redskins.

Unwary sophomores discover on school's first day that war paint is the initial step in becoming a full-fledged Redskin.

ACADEMIC

With North's smaller enrollment, programming was more flexible, thus allowing advisors to spend more time on each student's schedule. Subjects were constantly being added to broaden the curriculum, giving each student a chance to stretch his horizons. Exploratory teaching developed future teachers' interests in the profession by allowing them to explore the range of elementary and junior high classrooms. Experiments with BSCS biology, advanced chemistry and bookkeeping, Russian, choral groups, and seminars directed pupils for achievement. Results of these experiments supported a better academic system.

Through their study of English, students communciated with each other. Redskins learned the art of self-expression through an appreciation and evaluation of good literature. Special emphasis was placed upon the many facets of the humanities.

An extensive analysis of various types of literature comprised English 7. Seniors paraphrased short stories, essays, plays, and poems; however, English wasn't limited to all writing. Presenting floor talks, acting out plays, studying the "Atlantic Monthly," and leading group discussions also constituted senior English.

A term paper stressed the techniques of clear thinking, research, and writing in both junior and senior classes, many juniors writing term papers for the first time. Characteristic of most junior English classes was the comprehensive study of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and English literature.

Sophomore English students concentrated on many basic terms. They studied a background of American authors and their works through the probing of the American Literature textbook.

"Now what can I wear to the Senior Banquet?" ponders Nancy Morrison as she takes notes for her term paper.

English Scholars Accept Challenges Presented Throug

Sharon Uetrecht collects books corresponding to her note cards in preparation for her floor talk.

Don Hounts presents a W&D commercial to Mrs. Elizabeth Donnelly's sophomore English class.

Scot Clark and Bob Vegeler take Ron Stebing's subscription for the Collage, literary magazine.

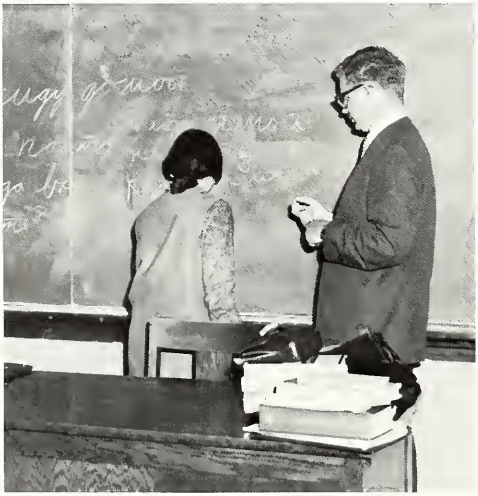
Literature and Grammar

Miss Elizabeth Little explains to Mike Baker her procedure in grading poetry, essay, and short story note cards.

Students in Mrs. Lois Giniecki's junior English class use props and costumes to act out a scene from "Macbeth."

Linguistic Horizons Stretch, Department Expands to In-

Earlene Dunbar seans a magazine to find information on the Spanish doll that Dwight Fraze holds. Suzie Poffenberger and Chris Craft refrain from offering what knowledge they have.



With chalk in hand, Mr. David Mitchell is prepared to aid JoAnn Stonebreaker with any diffienlty she may have, as she writes a Russian sentence on the board.

Second year German students add to their knowledge as they explore material available to them in magazines.

lude Russian, with French, German, Spanish, and Latin

North Side has expanded its foreign languare curriculum to include five languages—French, Spanish, Latin, German, and the first Slavic language offered, Russian. Taught by Mr. David Mitchell, the Russian course consisted mainly of vocabularly-building and construction study. One of the first things Russian students undertook was the mastery of a new alphabet.

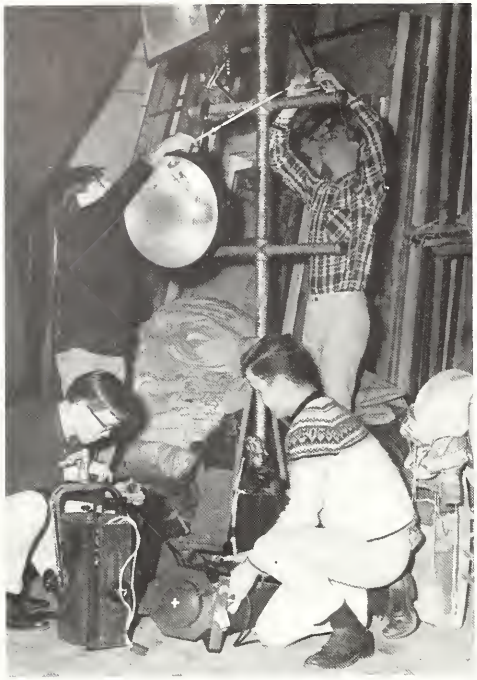
French and Spanish novels, plays, newspapers, and magazines challenged readers in practical application of their knowledge. The conversational, as well as the grammatical aspect of the two languages, played a major role in the study, as beginners spent much time learning to pronounce correctly. The classroom emphasized culture and current events, and five Redskins, including two graduates of last year, studied in France with the American Institute for Foreign Study.

Latin classes not only gained a knowledge of the language, but also the third and fourth year classes devoted much time translating the works of Cicero and Virgil. Extra reports contributed to the comprehension of Latin and early Roman history.

Rod Day, portraying the master, prepares to beat his slave, Tom Beaver, for stealing his gold. Mrs. Janet Weber's Latin class presented this play, "A Pot of Gold."

"Here it is," explains Heather Butler to Cyndy Lorman and Mike Harper. Heather points to St. Malo, where they studied French last summer.

Acting, Speaking, Composing



Mr. James Purkhiser's stage crew work diligently to prepare the props for a future production.

Speech and dramatics increased self-confidence and prepared the student to meet the public.

Dramatics enabled him to gain practical experience by performing before an audience at the various school productions, besides giving the student a general background of the theater.

Beginning speech students developed informal skills, bodily action, speaker-audience relationships, diction, preparation and communication the first semester; and advanced to formal skills, parliamentary procedure, discussions, debates, and argumentation. Speech competition was available to advanced students.

Theater arts furthered the pupil's knowledge of the fine arts by offering him an exploratory experience in art, music, and drama appreciation.

"Do you think this length is O.K.?" asks Marleen Engle of Cindy Gillespie, as Marty Murphy sews on a costume.

Marilyn Williams takes note of the time card that Dave Jessup holds as she presents her speech to the class.

Redskins Perform in Publications and before Audiences

Members of the News Bureau staff collect news for distribution among news media in Fort Wayne.

Marilyn Musselman, Legend editor, assists Kathy Puryear in the writing of headlines for her section.

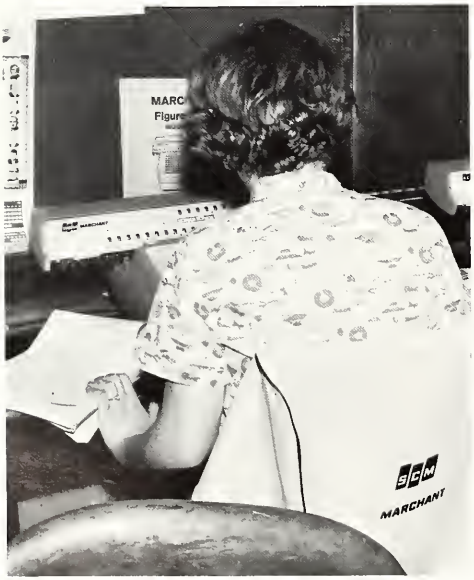
Editors and their assistants plan page layouts in preparation of the weekly newspaper, the "Northerner."

Frantic journalists scurried about the Dome in order to meet publication deadlines of the Legend and the Northerner. Obtaining facts, composing, checking, rewriting, typing, and proofreading constituted the endless job of preparing news items and copy for printing. Students expressed their messages not only through words, but also through the use of appealing pictures.

The News Bureau contacted the public through the local newspapers and radio and television stations to inform them of the major school events. The annual publications banquet recognized new positions on the staffs. By working on these publications, journalists gained an understanding of factual composition.

Developing speed and accuracy, Marsha Collins types from her shorthand notebook.

Students Accumulate Important Techniques for Future



Linda Jantz works diligently on the rotary calculator, one of the new business machines in the Service Center.

Regardless of future occupational plans, business students prepared themselves for everyday business activities.

General business gave students an insight for preparation. Among other classes offered in this department were typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, clerical practice, and business law.

The basic skill of clerical practice was learning to use business machines. "Taking this course prepared students to get a job right after graduation," stated Mrs. Wilma Ashe. The various new machines added this year were rotary and printing calculators, ten-key adding machines, and electric IBM typing machines.

Bookkeeping students concentrated mainly on the course used by most businesses and then went into further detail concerning the operation of sole proprietorship, partnership, and corporation.

Concentration on speed and accuracy composed the study of shorthand and typing.

Tammy Ladig appears tangled in typewriter ribbon as she prepares to change the ribbon for Mrs. Kathleen Paddock.

"Gentlemen . . ." begins Mrs. Marilynne Curtis as she dictates to her advanced shorthand class.

Vocations and Commercial Careers in Business World

The effects of a test vary with students in Mr. Donald Hamm's first semester business law class.

Mr. John Walter looks on as his fifth period class ponders over a difficult exercise in bookkeeping.

Numerical Knowledge Fills Minds of Mathematicians

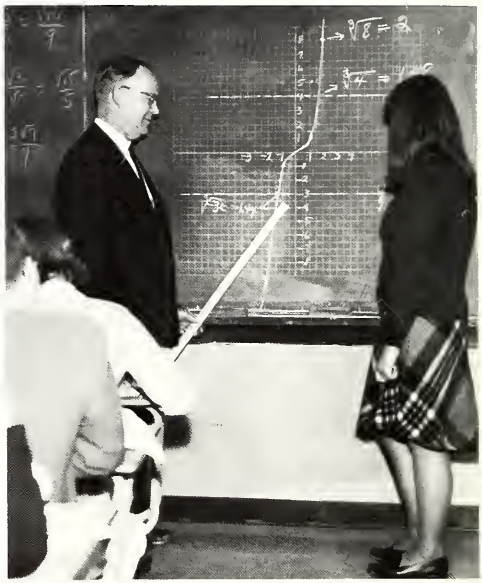
Immense change took place in the mathematics department this year. The difference was the "new math" which devoted more time to each topic, and stressed the "why" rather than the "how" of computation.

Proving algebraic theorems, definitions, and structure became a more important part of the algebraic courses, although solving for the unknown still remained the primary goal.

Geometry, which included plane and solid geometry, dealt with basic logic, congruent triangles and loci, and then delved into the study of cubes and spheres.

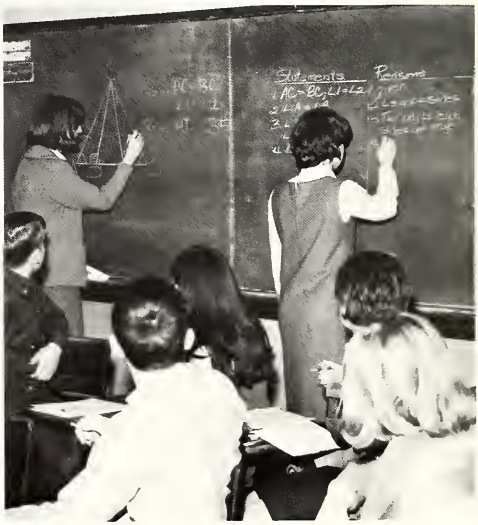
Trigonometry and analytic geometry, combined with some college algebra and an introduction to calculus, were offered to seniors and advanced juniors. Determining the relationship between the sides of a right triangle and its angles constituted the major part of the trigonometry class.

Mathematics furnished a vital foundation to science and engineering, homemaking, and business and technical skills.



Mr. Charles Clark explains a few "points" on an algebraic graph to junior Cindy Klejnot.

Working on his trigonometry assignment, Joe Housman bends over his slide rule to solve quadratic equations.



Fellow students watch with interest as Roxann Waters and Marilyn Kelder prove the congruency of two triangles.

The science department added two courses this year to their curriculm. Chemistry III applied the principles acquired in Chemistry I and II, but involved more rigorous laboratory experimentation. This course attempted to evolve a better understanding of chemical principles by usage. 'Skins studied the basic fundamentals of chemistry and the relationship between matter and energy in Chemistry I and II.

Also added this year was Biological Science Curriculum Study, purple and blue version. The purple version of BSCS biology was designed for sophomores who did not take biology as freshmen. It stressed laboratory work in the many phases of science.

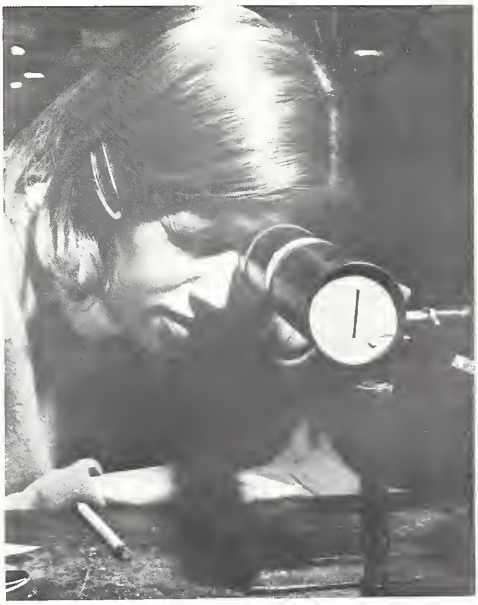
An intensive study of the activities of higher plants, designed for students who took biology as freshmen and chemistry in tenth or eleventh grade, was introduced in the blue version of BSCS biology.

Physics involved a study of the universe, waves, electricity, and atomic structure, and showed how physical knowledge is acquired experimentally and woven into physical theory.

'Skins investigate the development of embryology in Mrs. Patricia Light's BSCS class, blue version.

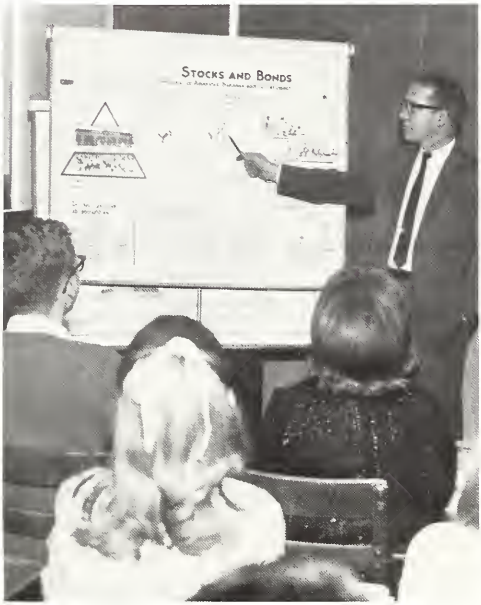
Scientists Probe Laws, Assumptions in Lab and Class

Physics students observe pulses on a coil spring to find similarities in waves and light rays.



Connie Rider records data as she notes the effects of an experiment performed in a chemistry lab.

'Skins Delve into Past, Examine Present, Study Future



What does a bear have to do with the stock market? Mr. Robert A. Weaver explains to his economics class about a "bear market," in which stock prices decline.

To develop well-informed citizens constituted the primary goal of the social science department. Governmental and historical analysis furnished the student with a comprehension of politics and world affairs. Many sophomore Redskins took World History, a course which involved the study and comparison of Man's progress from his most primitive form to his present intricacy. Juniors proceeded to probe the history and fundamental policies of the United States. With the comprehension of our nation's beginning came an understanding of the position of our country and our duties as citizens.

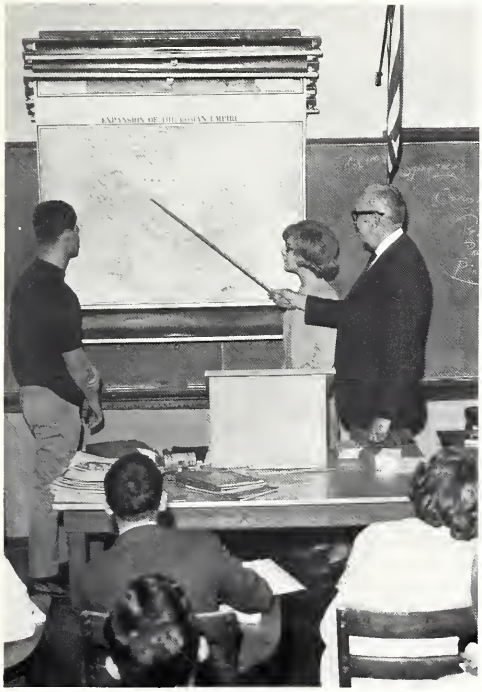
Government provided an intense study of the Constitution, and the mechanics of our local, state, and federal government. Special emphasis was placed on courts, law-making, internal relations, the United Nations, and foreign policies. Economics covered the study of classified facts and theories concerning Man's effort to secure the material commodities and personal services which are needed to support life and make a civilized existence possible. Sociology dealt with environmental effects upon the work, behavior, and customs of various societies.

Under the direction of Mr. R. J. Certain and his candy-cane-striped stick, seniors learn the fundamentals of economics.

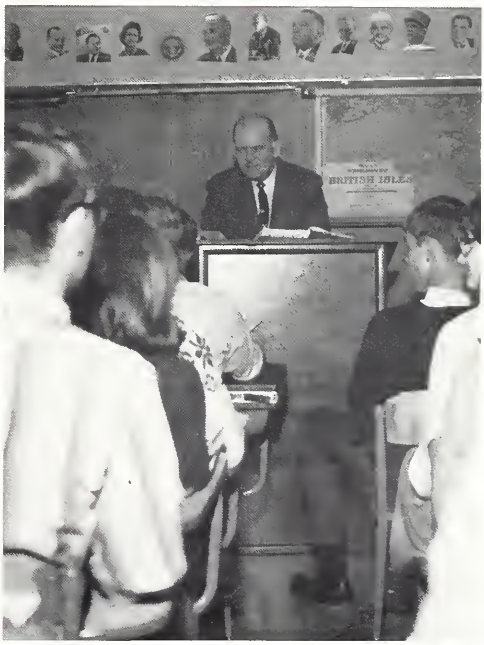
Reed Brosius, with the aid of Gale Hughes and Barb Zion, gives a current events report on Viet Nam.

Acquainting Students with Nation and Its Background

Sociology students participate in a panel discussion on retardation and the security of elderly people.



Mr. J. R. Sinks points to an important location of the Roman Empire as world history students watch with interest.



Mr. Myron Henderson lectures to his government class on the heritage of American government.

Home Economics, Industrial Arts Furnish Students with

Practicing some simple basics of home nursing, Linda Hasty takes Marilyn Snyder's temperature and pulse.

Home Ec students worked for proficiency in the arts of homemaking and domestic skills. The various courses stressed efficient home management and successful solutions to problems which accompany family life.

Students practiced food selection and care, budgeting, meal preparation, and correct service techniques in the food courses. They also studied good management practices, safety, sanitation, and equipment care. Students designed wardrobes and made various items of clothing after gaining a basic knowledge of clothing selection, care, construction, and colors and fabrics.

Establishing and maintaining an ideal family relationship, a pleasant atmosphere, and a secure budget were the chief concerns of the home nursing, home decorating, family living, and family management classes. Students created actual family circumstances through skits to obtain realistic experiences in family living. Panel discussions, special speakers, and question-and-answer periods provided necessary facts for the future establishment of homes.

Mr. Stone, guest speaker from the Family Services, addresses Mrs. Betty Baugh's family living class.

Jacquie Headrick and Kathy Deveau practice making a bed with Lynn Connor as a patient.

Sound Foundation for Future Homes and Occupations

While the rest of Mr. C. Gordon Reynard's drawing class works diligently sketching a machine on new drawing boards, John Wert tests his abilities to draw with his eyes closed.

Buzzing saws and pounding hammers were just a few of the common sounds around the various industrial arts classes.

Students who took industrial arts for the first time were introduced to mechanical drawing. Reading drawings, lettering, and sketching plans for a project constituted this one-semester course. The second semester students shifted to woods or metals.

The basic fundamentals of wood involved machine and mill work and wood furnishing. Students utilized to their farthest extent the knowledge of woods by making coffee tables, end tables, or chairs.

In Metal I, 'Skins learned how to operate a few basic metal machines such as the grinder, drill press, and milling machines.

More advanced machines comprised Metal II and III. 'Skins worked in the foundry area and with sheet metal and learned art welding and how to make castings.

Some of the industrial arts rooms received new equipment. Metal classes acquired benches with lock storages, while others made a tool closet.

Wearing goggles for protection, Ken Lee welds a "tee-joint" as part of an exercise in his industrial arts class.

Creative Abilities, Self-Expression Developed in Art

Kenneth Putt and Sandy Layson put the final touches on "Exhibition" produced by Mr. Donald McClead's Art classes.

Student artists strived to grasp the fundamentals of art, to describe what they saw and felt, and to understand the work of great artists.

Beginning art dealt with design, color, line, space, shapes, texture, figures, and dimensionals. Art III and IV involved crafts; principally ceramics, enameling, stitchery, lettering, and poster construction. Human figure drawing was stressed in Art V and VI. Seventh semester artists delved into the advanced skills of graphics, silk screening, lithography, etching, prints, linoleum cuts, and wood blocks. An Art VIII course was designed for students interested in art education in college.

Art appreciation covered art for the home, ceramics, understanding paintings, and architecture and sculpture.

Demonstrating her talents at a loom, Maria Diehm weaves brilliant colors into a shawl in her advanced art class.

Rehearsals, Performances Enrich Music Background

The Troubadours, under the direction of Mr. Williard Holloway, displays self-expression as they blend their voices.

Blowing away on their saxaphones, 'Skins polish up their musical talents as they rehearse for a concert.

Musicians were given excellent opportunities to enrich talents in both the instrumental and vocal phases of the music field.

After devoting much time and effort rehearsing and improving their material, the orchestra, band, and choirs displayed their abilities in various engagements and concerts.

The Chanticleers, a newly founded choir, were included in the major performing groups. Directed by Mr. Gary Smith, the choir was comprised of junior and senior girls.

Vocal techniques class, music literature, and music theory, which included ear training, scale manipulation, harmony, visual analysis, and creative writing, were recommended to students interested in furthering their music education in college.

The marching band, directed by Mr. Gary Smith, plays the school song before a home football game.

EXIT

ACTIVITIES

Participation in the clubs and their activities increased as Domeland once again regained the eight to three schedule.

By taking advantage of the opportunities provided by these activities, one may become more active and interested in the affairs of the school. Individual interests that may not be developed in the classroom may emerge from these clubs.

Of the more than 30 organizations formed, it is evident one has a wide selection from which to choose the type of club he feels he can contribute to and from which he may receive the most satisfaction.

More than building leadership qualities and expanding knowledge and creative thinking, exists the most important purpose of a club . . . the broadening of friendships.

mprovements, Building Leadership Qualities

The traditional Christmas Bureau project of providing needy families with food and clothing found Student Council members dedicated to serving and promoting the student body to assist these 64 families, over one-fourth of the adopted families in the Fort Wayne area.

Faculty advisors Miss Ruth Eudaley and Mr. James Lewinski contributed their time and effort to the betterment of each of the six committees.

The standing committee compiled rules for dances held at North Side. Persuading potential drop-outs to remain in school found the education committee at work. The school spirit committee members composed standards for the selection of cheerleaders. Revising the class election plans was the citizenship committee's duty. The school problems committee improved the bulletin boards and the safety committee sponsored the Civil Defense Program.

Inspirational guest speakers, followed by group discussion was one step toward the development of leadership qualities as illustrated by the Direction One Programs.

of Yesteryear.

A tremendous amount of time and effort was put forth by the Legend staff in striving for a memorable annual. The continuous cycle of writing and re-writing copy, taking and re-taking pictures, and checking and re-checking final form seemed never-ending to these students.

Enthusiastically working to assist editor Marilyn Musselman, assistant editor Cyndy Lorman and faculty advisor Miss Norma Thiele compile the 1966 Legend were the following members of the staff: index, Linda Jantz; academic, Carolyn Sayles and Carolyn Simmons; faculty, Kathy Puryear; seniors, Jan Hale; underclass, Bonnie Boehme and Linda Lantz; activities, Penny Winkler and Jill Singewald; sports, Howard Doughty; copy editor, Jeanette Peek; and business manager, Cindy Earnest. Besides the work involved as editors, Marilyn and Cyndy also completed the opening and closing sections of the Legend.

Quill and Scroll, 1500 Club Reward Dedicated Journalists

Recognition in the 1500 Club appeases all the treacherous moments encountered by Northerner staff members. To obtain membership one must accumulate 1,500 points for printed material. While a bronze pin is awarded for the accumulated 1,500 points, members may strive for greater accomplishments: 3,000 points merits a silver pin and 5,000 points, a gold pin. To qualify for a gold jeweled pin, one must have 10,000 points.

Quill and Scroll, an honorary organization, provides recognition for individuals who have done outstanding work in journalism. Seniors in the upper third of their class and considered valuable members of the journalism department qualify for membership.

Third row: Lee Stamm, Joy Shady, John Stubbins, Dan Kelly, Glenn Rossman, Joe Hyde. Fourth row: John Collins, Steve Zweig, Jim Moore, Mike Harper, Paul Helmke, Jim Tegtmeyer, Mr. Robert Pugh.

To promote an interest in literature by stimulating discussion of literary topics is one of the goals of Helicon, sponsored by Miss Mabel Greenwalt, Mrs. Marjorie Spoolstra, and Mr. Robert Pugh.

Offering its members opportunities for school and civic service, social activity and self-improvement, Helicon sponsored a party at the Allen County Home and also sponsored the Washington-Lincoln assembly program.

Other projects for Helicon members were the Spring Tea and the Senior Farewell Banquet.

Completion of the tennis courts with the Joseph P. Hagadorn Memorial donation was first on the agenda for the Key Clubbers this year.

Among other service projects was the annual publication of the North Side Key, which was equipped with a student directory of addresses and telephone and home room numbers.

Serving their school and community, Key Club members sorted and delivered food for the Christmas Bureau, contributed to the Teen Gallon Blood Donor Award, ushered at the Christ Child Festival and painted the school's bulletin boards.

Promotion of service for the school and community was the main objective of Key Club members. To instill religious values in the members and to inculcate a feeling for others through working on several service projects were major ingredients of the club under the guidance of Mr. Clive Wert, Mr. Donald Coleman, Mr. Ronald Certain, and Mr. Glen Bickel, overall faculty consultant.

Archery, soccer, basketball, and volleyball were only a few of the varied sports in which girls' intramurals members participated.

To give all interested girls an opportunity to learn and participate and to teach the girls to uphold the ideals of loyalty and sportsmanship were the goals of girls' intramurals sponsored, by Mrs. Susan Vandermolen.

The Modern Dance Club is an organization established to promote a further understanding and appreciation of modern, contemporary, free form, and jazz dancing.

The girls were acquainted with fundamental movement experience under the guidance of Mrs. Susan Vandermolen. Skill was not a prerequisite for membership.

Debators Compete; Speech Class Develops New Program

Radio announcements during National Education Week for presentation on local radio stations and the development of a high school news program to publicize news of community high schools were the goals of the Speech Club this year. With faculty advisor Mr. John DeYoung, members attended speech contests within a radius of one hundred miles.

Sharpening their skills at area debating meets took the Debate Club to Columbia City, Kokomo, New Castle, Logansport, New Haven, and Elkhart, according to sponsor Mr. Stanley Lee.

Musical Talents Are Enriched Through Tri-M

Modern Music Masters held their first semester banquet on January 12, 1966, where all spikes became active members through a formal initiation ceremony. Included in the ceremony was the lifetime membership card and membership pin. The first requirements for spikes was to perform a solo and to write a term paper on some aspect of music. All semester during "spikehood", spikes were subject to the wishes and commands of the actives.

To foster an interest in good orchestral, band, and choral performances, and encourage good listening habits and discrimination in musical tastes are the objectives of Tri-M.

Performing in conjunction with the Concert Band was the Varsity Band, also under the direction of Mr. Gary Smith. The Varsity Band participated in parades, performed at football games during half time and pre-game ceremonies and also played for the cross country sectional meet with the Marching Band.

Composed mainly of sophomores, the Varsity Band performed as a separate band during concert season. After marching season, the remainder of the year was spent in preparation for individuals to qualify for Concert Band. Last summer both bands attended a band camp in Syracuse, Indiana. They prepared marching shows for the entire season and enjoyed recreational as well as educational opportunities.

The Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Gary Smith, was comprised of juniors, seniors, and four sophomores. Chosen from the Concert and Varsity Bands was the Pep Band which played at pep sessions and basketball games. Also chosen from this group was the dance band, properly known as the Wildsiders.

The Marching Band this year captured First Division at the N.I.S.B.O.V.A. Marching Contest and also marched in the Memorial Day and Landing day parades in Fort Wayne. After marching season, the Concert Band performed as a separate organization at band concerts, solo and band contest at Indianapolis, and the state band contest in LaPorte, Indiana. They toured to three junior high schools to present a program for entertainment and recruitment purposes.

The North Side Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. David Platt, was concerned with performance of the standard orchestral literature. By performing, students not only developed individual musicianship, but they also developed a criteria for judgment of musical values.

In November the Orchestra was asked to perform the Finale Concert of the 1965 Indiana Music Educators Convention at Indianapolis, in the "Top of Severin". In October the Orchestra was also asked to perform for the general meeting of the Indiana State Teachers' Association.

Out of the North Side Orchestra, twenty-seven of its members were regular members of the All-City Orchestra; fourteen members were selected to perform in the Indiana All-State Orchestra.

Another music group was the "Wildsiders", a dance band directed by Mr. Gary Smith. "Walk on the Wild Side" was the theme song of members selected, according to their music ability, from the entire music department. In two years they have performed at banquets, dances, and on television several times.

To sing both secular and sacred music and to give members an opportunity to perform concerts inside and outside of school were the goals of the A Cappella Choir.

During November, A Cappella made a guest appearance at the Band and Orchestra Concert and traveled to Indianapolis to sing for the Indiana Music Educator's Association.

Under the direction of Mr. Willard Holloway, A Cappella promoted the North Side music department in performances at junior highs in the North Side district.

Other musical events in which A Cappella performed were the spring concert in May, a sacred concert in March, and Varsity Varieties.

Two new vocal groups added to the North Side Music Department were the Troubadours and the Chanticleers.

The name Troubadours came from singing minstrels who originated in Provence in southeastern France. A notable feature of the troubadour music was its emphasis on stylized forms and types of music. This group, under the direction of Mr. Willard Holloway, was made up of twelve girls and twelve boys from the A Cappella Choir. They were featured in many outside concerts where the large choir could not go, such as the Lions Club, Rotary Club and the

The name Chanticleers is French also, meaning "clear singer". The Chanticleers, directed by Mr. Gary Smith, is a select vocal group of fifty-five junior and senior girls. Time was taken out during class to select the dresses which the girls made themselves. Some performances were the annual Christmas Concert, the Allen County Home, the North Side Missionary Church, and the Spring Concert.

Also performing this year were the Varsity and Training choirs, their object being to train and develop singers for the other performing vocal groups.

Twirlers prepare for entrance and performance at a home basketball game during the half-time.

Nineteen girls practiced diligently to perform satisfactorily for hundreds of spectators at home football and basketball games.

Under the direction of Mr. Gary Smith, these twirlers attended the Smith-Walbridge Band Camp last summer to further perfect their twirling and marching skills.

Promotion of school spirit and good qualities of sportsmanship and leadership were the main goals of this group. Physical and mental attributes were also developed in the girls who participated.

More than adding color and spirit to the games, these twirlers have participated in contests throughout the state. They received first prize medals at the regional and state NISBOVA, held at Fort Wayne and Indianapolis respectively. First place trophies were also also awarded these girls at the USTA contests held in Waterloo and Dunlap.

This marks the first year North Side has had a select group of girls as flag bearers. These five girls not only presented the red, white, and blue preceding football and basketball games, but they also participated in many area parades.

Perfection of Aquatic Skills Goal of Ripplettes

Ripplettes rehearse aquatic formations for upcoming water show presented at the Senior Mother's Tea.

Ripplettes gave girls with outstanding aquatic ability the opportunity to perfect their skills in water ballet and synchronized swimming.

New members were chosen upon their performance of the basic skills which included hairpin dives, back dolphins, pike-surface dives, oysters, and sculls.

Following the spike period which included wearing a sign signifying club membership, performing skits, addressing their actives' and collecting "points" by means of actives' signatures, all members joined efforts in planning their annual water show.

Under the counseling of Mrs. Elnora Gallahue, Ripplettes provided an opportunity to promote the spirit of good sportsmanship and friendship among the members of the group.

The Future Teachers of America, better known as F.T.A., was sponsored this year by Mrs. Dolores Klocke and Mr. Robert Weaver.

The state project of the club was to install a new F.T.A. chapter. Other important projects were providing guides and hosts for Back-to-School Night; sponsoring American Education Week and April Teaching Career Month; attending area workshops and state F.T.A. conventions; sponsoring tutoring corps and service corps; participating in tours to Brentwood and Johnny Appleseed schools and college campuses; sending candidates to run for state offices and Miss FTA; and awarding scholarships at leadership workshops and special institutes.

The National Thespian Society recognizes and honors students who have done outstanding work in dramatics. Sponsored by Mr. James Purkiser, the organization served to create a more active interest in the dramatic arts. Social activities of year were highlighted by the annual spring banquet held in conjunction with the arts department.

Reading and analyzing different phases of history, the best literature of our time, and the theory and practice of communism provided enrichment for students in discussion groups under the guidance of Miss Ruth Eudaley. Mr. James Lewinski and Mr. Ronald Certain. The three non-credit Seminar groups met separately prior to homeroom.

Mr. James Lewinski conducts one of the three Seminar discussion groups pertaining to the best literature of the present.

ATHLETICS

Athletics have always played an important role in school life—now more than ever before. Any athlete, big or small, who possesses particular skills such as speed, strength, endurance, coordination, flexibility, and agility may obtain a letter by practicing and sacrificing for the team. The true athlete must be able to use his mind along with his physical attributes.

An athletic program exists for the entire school as well as for the individual. Gym classes give the student a chance to have fun as well as profit from its exercise. The cheerblock, cheerleaders, and the entire student body combine to form the spirit which supports every Redskin team and gives unity and purpose to all school activities.

First Year in Area Conference Proves Profitable

It might have been the changed instruction of a new coach or the switch to the city conference, but quite suddenly the gridsters blossomed out with the best win-loss record in a decade.

Fighting their way around always tough Elkhart, whom the 'Skins had not beaten in eight years, the team encountered a minor setback at the hands of Central. The Goshert men quickly got back on their feet and advanced to compile a 6-2-1 record.

On this year's all-city roster were Ron Milholland, Kent Beaverson, and Ed Harrison who was elected unanimously. Mark Henry and Bill Bordner appeared on the second team and Bob Smith, Bill Gehron, and Bob Dick received honorable mention.

Reserve Team Hopes To Profit From Its Mistakes

Placing their sholderpads on for the last game of the season, the sophs prepare to play Bishop Luers.

The reserve football squad found this year's city competition was rough, as their biggest accomplishment was a tie. They always seemed to have the bad breaks, and when the gun sounded at the end of each game they picked up more bruises than trophies.

The outfit did strengthen as the season progressed, however, until their next-to-last game, when they fought to a 12-12 deadlock with the Bishop Dwenger eleven.

Although this season was not a victorious one, it did prove to be profitable. They gained experience as well as the inspiration to go up to a higher caliber on the gridiron next year when the squad joins the varsity. With experience and drive to win, which the sophomores earned this year, a little practice will furnish the skill for a fine showing next fall when they will take revenge on last year's foes.

Mitchell's Grapplers Do Well In First Year

Senior Joe Housman seems to have the best of his opponent during a mat match at Concordia.

The wrestling team managed to twist a few arms and win three games in their first year. In city competition they played about par for the course as it was the out of town grapplers that gave our men the most woes. They also participated in two first year tournaments as the whole city virtually took up the varsity sport this year.

Mr. Mitchell, also a new-comer to North, coached the wrestlers with the aid of Mr. Duane Rowe and Mr. Bill Goshert.

Cross Country Team Cops Second Place in State Meet

Dave Hitchcock and Tom Ralston were named the most dedicated and the most valuable harriers for this past season.

Coach Duane Rowe and the cross country team ran off with local honors and equalled the best teams ever representing the Dome as they copped second in the state meet.

Leading the team across the finish line, senior Tom Ralston, the most valuable harrier, was quickly followed by seniors Dave Hitchcock, Don Baldwin, Joe Housman, Jerry Luyben, and sophomore Nick Starnes.

A mental attitude and a steady improvement throughout the season to make the state meet count characterized the team. They placed ninth at Shortridge and never placed lower than second in the state elimination tournament.

At Indianapolis Tom Ralston scampered over the hills to take the fourteenth place ribbon, but the talent was so evenly distributed that he and the rest of the team were able to take home silver medals and the glory of becoming state runner-up.

North hosted the sectionals and regionals as in years past, but this year's sectional achieved the I.H.S.A.A. praise by having the band present to create enthusiasm.

The varsity harriers are, Ken Long, Tom Eichenauer, Don Baldwin, Jerry Luyben, Tom Ralston, Head Coach Duane Rowe, Principal Bill C. Anthis, Dave Hitchcock, Dan Gerver, Nick Starnes, Joe Housman, Max Lombard.

The six Redskin entries to the state meet stride effortlessly along to keep in championship form.

Joe Housman pins on his number as the rest of the team rest up before an important meet.

"We will win," comments Dave Hitchcock as Coach Rowe leads his team to the starting line.

Starnes, Ralston, and Baldwin jump into the lead as they're off and running to see who will win the sectionals.

Romping Over the Hills To Rout Most Opposing Teams

Being out of the Northern Indiana Conference for the first year did not change their predominance as a state power. The Rowemen dumped the opposition for eleven wins while losing just two non-invitational meets.

Hoopsters Crimp Cadets, Eliminate Elmhurst, Bomb Bull

Coach Hey instills confidence in Tom Beaver and sends him into the game with tactics slightly changed.

Early in the season By Hey's rugged Redskins continually turned the opposition back, but didn't seem to have the potential to handle the rougher teams and advance far into the state elimination tournament. Teams such as Berne and newly-created Snider were sticking close until the fourth quarter, and Central, South, and Columbia City upended the cagers, putting doubts in observers' minds as to what kind of team they were cheering. But unmeasurable credit must go the way of Hey, Will Doehrman, and Ed Butler as they continued to mold the hoopsters into a syncronized basketball machine that showed the unity of a closely knit team. Picking up momentum, they proceeded to play ball with the best of teams and gave ninth-ranked Central one of the biggest scares of their hard-fought season.

With the start of the sectional, the Red and White romped over two city foes and took out a very strong New Haven team in the finals. No one doubted that the Redskins posessed greatness when the team found themselves in only the second Regional in eleven years. Always tough, third ranked, undefeated Garrett found that when the final horn sounded in the afternoon game, they had but one point to spare—it in itself a tribute to a notable Redskin team.

Reserves Pass, Shoot, Rebound to Successful Season

The reserve team did not run into too much trouble preparing themselves for varsity material as they ran away with more wins than defeats. Coached by able Will Doerhman, they gained much experience winning eleven games out of eighteen and averaging more points than their opponents.

The underclassmen stumbled around for awhile and missed capturing the holiday tourney title by a few points at the hands of Elmhurst. They then went on to become a great team when they won seven of their last ten games, defeating Central twice.

Tankers Turn Tide to Tromp Panthers, Cop City Title

The swim team experienced its second competative season, downing Snider twice to take the city championship. Coach Clinkenbeard sees more victories in the coming years as North will host swim clinics to develop material to be used with the returning lettermen.

Chuck Goodal, Dave Billian, Byron Andrews, and Dave Tennent were seniors receiving letters. Underclass letter-winners included Rich Howenstine, Dave Ross, and Rick Ross.

Golfers Begin In Early April; Good Season In View

Serving well as athletic managers are, Bottom row: Howard Shook, Tom Gepfert, Frank Akey. Back row: Brian Davis, Merrill Hastings, and Gail Balliet.

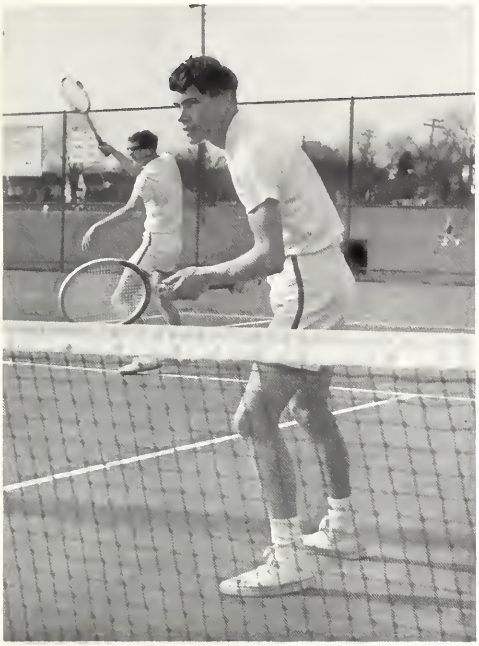
Despite bad weather the golf team and some hopeful prospects began to practice early in April for the upcoming season.

The only experienced varsity player was Howard Shook. Bill Schumaker, Tim Leeth, Tom Gepfert, and Steve Edwards showed much improvement, however, and all indications pointed toward a successful season.

The immediate success of the team was attributed to the linksmen's determination, desire, and love of the game. Before each match, coach Beryl Lewis picked five men to compete, basing his selection on their week's play. Thus a boy who showed much improvement or had had a "hot" round of golf had a chance to move up to the varsity. In the meets, each of the five players was paired with an opponent for medal play.

Keeping North Side's athletes well-equipped, cleaning all equipment and checking it out to the athletes, making a careful account of all equipment in use, and assisting the athletes themselves is the job of the managers. They go about this task efficiently and work hard, doing everything exactly as the coaches want them to.

Tennis Team Serves, Rushes, Volleys to Successful Season



Bob Vegeler sends the ball across the net as Ron Longley moves up for the return.

The netmen faced predominantly city competition this year, with only three matches out of town. With only one returning letterman, Coach Myron Henderson found lack of experience to be a handicap.

Led by always tough Rick Day and Ron Longley, number one and number two men respectively, the Redskin netters had a four-win and two-loss record, toward the end of April. Practice, desire, and determination have been the winning combination to make up for the apparent lack of experience. A good season is in view, according to coach and team members.

State high hurdle champion Jim Hallenbeck toys with the opposition, saving his speed for the finals in the low hurdles.

The track team featured two state champions and the cream of the city's crop in sophomores. Leading the lineup were Jim Hallenbeck and Howard Doughty, who won state championships last year in the high and low hurdles respectively. The duo set state sectional and school records as underclassmen and continually turned the opposition back wherever they went. Sprinters were always a strong point for North Side and Bob Smith, Mike Caley, and Kent Beaverson kept the tradition going strong. Seniors John McMahan and Ed Harris constantly put the shot 55 feet while Barry Mills long-jumped 21 feet occasionally. Don Baldwin, one of the best 440 and 880 men in the state, led the field of distance men consisting of Dave Hitchcock and Tom Eichenauer.

The surprise of the season was the sophomore team, which came to the rescue of the graduate-ridden varsity. Bob Furniss and Ron King were the best sophomore sprinter and hurdler in the city. Half-miler hurdler Mike Keller showed skill and determination in his events. Nick Starnes, member of the state runners-up cross country team, turned in good performances in the mile run, as did Ken Long in the two-mile run.

The 1965 state champions were expected to place high in the state meet again this year, possibly capturing their seventh state championship.

Champions Again Expected to Place High in State Meet

Howard Doughty, state champ in the low sticks, moves out in the lead of a high hurdle race. Sophomore Ron King ran second.

Don Baldwin easily wins a quarter mile race in 51 seconds. Don also proved to be the fastest 880 man in the area.

The half-mile relay team of Bob Smith, Howard Doughty, Jim Hallenbeck, and Bob Furniss could break the school record.

They fly through the air with the greatest of ease — Barry Mills and Dave Higgins make their marks in the broad jump.

Redskin Yell Leaders Have Pep, Power; Add Spirit

We've got the pep . . . We've got the power . . . and Varsity Cheerleaders Jan Armey, Barb Seabury, Pam Mark, Linda James, Penny Winkler, and Sherry Goshert stand up and yell. The sextet did much to excite a winning spirit.

Cheerleaders practically create school spirit. When the players are down, they get them back on their feet and the team goes on to another win.

The varsity cheerleaders, chosen by the Student Council, teachers, and the graduating varsity cheerleaders, are sponsored by Mrs. Elnora Gallahue, Mrs. Susan Vandermolen, and Mrs. Patricia Light. The yell leaders started practice in the first week in July and are now practicing fifth period four days a week in the girls' gym.

Leading the student body at all basketball and football games both at home and away was their duty. Besides supplementing school spirit, they sponsored a dance in November and graded the reserve cheerleaders.

This year's varsity cheerleaders were Linda James (captain), Penny Winkler, Pam Mark, Jan Armey, Sherry Goshert, and Barb Seabury. The reserve cheerleaders were Jacque Zirkle, Jean Jernstrom, Connie Salud, Katy Albright, and Sherry Harter.

Something new has been added to create school spirit, enthusiasum, and entertainment. Pom pom girls performed at half time and in pep sessions. Approximately twenty-four girls gave a unique performance in their yells, number, and formation.

Linda James, Barb Seabury, Sherry Goshert, Pam Mark, Penny Winkler, and Jan Armey chug across the floor yelling "T-E-A-M". And away we go.

Intramurals Gives Boys Chance to Shed Classroom

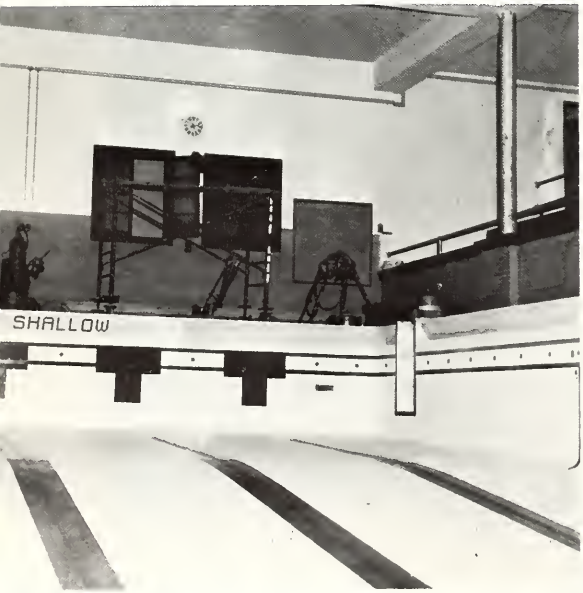
Designed to give those boys not involved in varsity sports a chance to compete against each other, the North Side intramural program offered the opportunity to participate in five different sports. In the autumn and spring, emphasis was on outdoor sports. Amateur athlete swung softball bats or chased footballs in the team competition. With the approach of winter, activity moved indoors. Basketball and weight-lifting were two of the sports sponsored by Mr. Will E. Doehrman.

Also, one of the most popular intramural programs during the winter was the bowling league, which met on Thursdays after school. Volleyball was the feature after the basketball playoffs and was then followed by softball.

The girls benefitted much the same way in physical education, and the Girls Athletic Association, G.A.A., provided girls with fun, exercise, competition, and a chance for recognition. However, the primary purpose of G.A.A. is to stress the importance of teamwork, physical fitness, and sportsmanship.

The main phase of intramurals is basketball. Fifth period in the gym was the setting of many exciting games.

Much of the intramural and physical education program was hindered by this year's renovation of the pool.



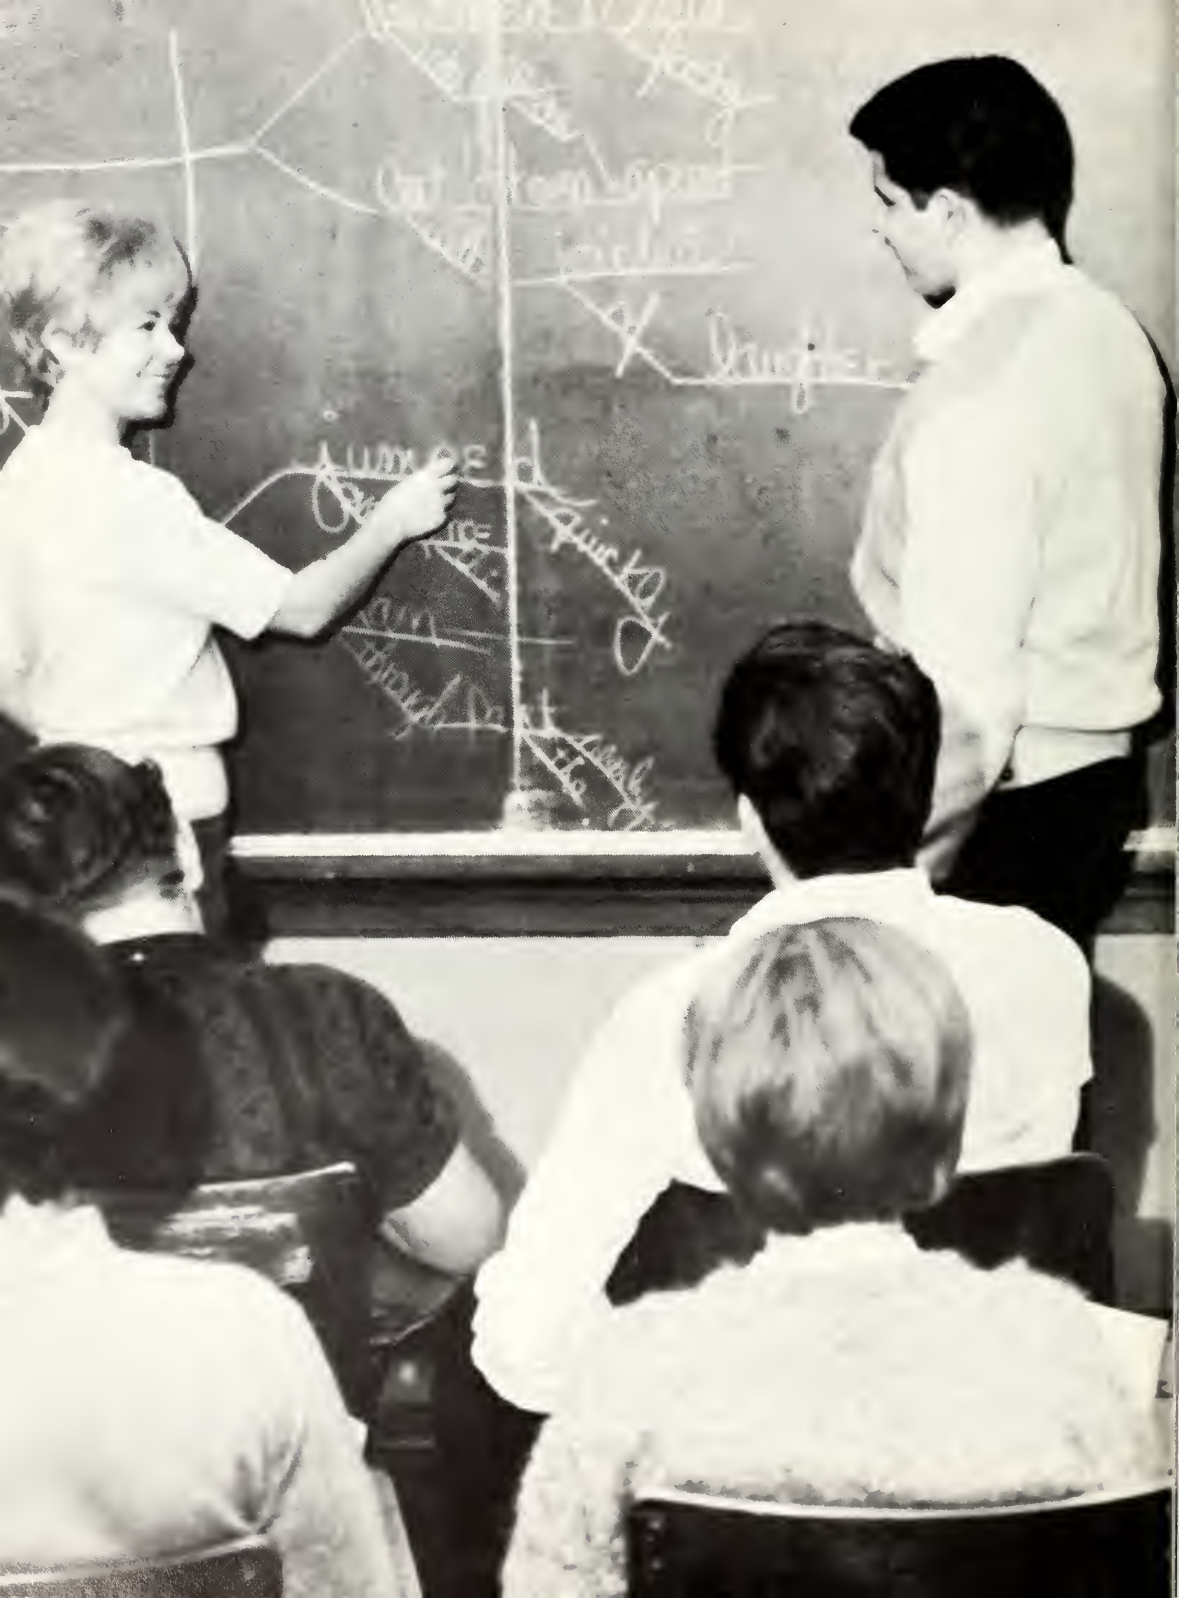
Using the weight room, the boys gained strength and coordination that they normally would not get on the field.

Tension; Girls Profit, Too

Volleyball gave the girls a chance to co-ordinate as a unit and was greatly enjoyed in physical education classes.

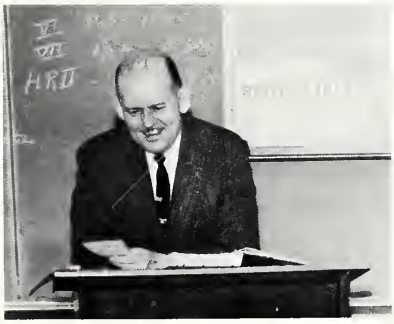
Girls show that they too can snare a rebound almost as well as any boy, but with a lot more style.

Soccer gave the girls a chance to exercise.

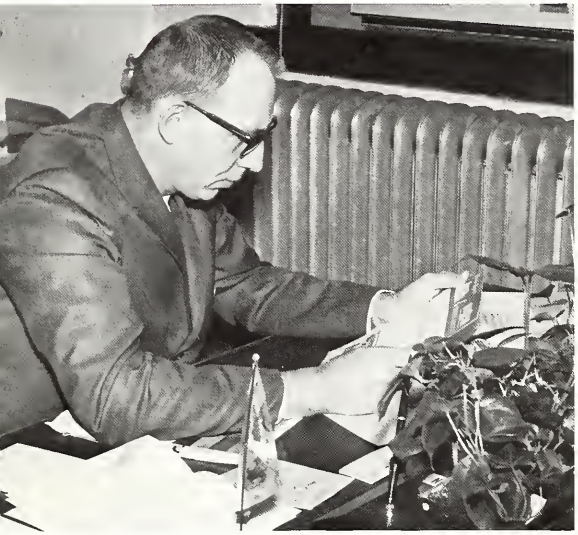


FACULTY

With the return of the 8 to 3 schedule, faculty responsibilities were easier to accomplish. Teachers could contact students, knowing that they could see their pupils after school and that it didn't mean before 1 o'clock or after 4 o'clock. More teachers had their own rooms, which enabled them to use their time to the best possible advantage. Classrooms were not interrupted by lockers clanging and bells ringing every five minutes. The faculty could plan outside material to make their classes interesting and to conduct extra-curricular activities. Because everyone had the same schedule, department meetings could be held in a routine fashion. Most important was the fact that the teachers were not as tired and could cope with the problems that every eventful day of school would bring.



Anthis Devotes More Time to Students; Grile Improves



Dr. Bill C. Anthis, Principal, keeps up to date by studying the educational developments of other schools.

Dr. Anthis's secretary, Mrs. Helen Houts is responsible for typing bulletins, letters and making appointments.

Dr. Anthis acquaints himself with 'Skins by asking the names of those who pick up homeroom bulletins.

More time with and for students was the main objective of Dr. Bill Anthis this year. Due to the convenience of the 8 to 3 schedule, he was able to get personally acquainted with more individuals and work with more groups. He could discover new methods of accomplishing the ideals at North Side.

In addition to providing leadership for curricular and extra-curricular programs of the school, he spent much time evaluating the agenda to see that it met the standards and goals of Fort Wayne Community Schools. He formulated plans for further progress and worked to carry them out.

With his wife and son, Dr. Anthis tried to attend every play, concert, and athletic event at North. As well as the activity of his busy school life, he participated in the work of the Psychiatric Center, American Field Services, Citizens' Education Council, United Community Services, and the Indiana Chapter of Multiple Sclerosis Society.

'Educational Climate' Due to Returning 8 to 3 Schedule

Dr. Anthis and Mr. Grile discuss the advantages of the location of North Side in relation to other area schools.

Mr. Lester Grile is not considered a regular faculty member of North Side, although by fulfilling his obligations, he helps North Side to run smoothly.

"The return of the normal time schedule at North Side has helped my job," states Mr. Grile. "Part of my responsibility is to see that each school has the best possible educational climate for the principal, faculty, and students. Whenever we are able to make adjustments which improve this climate, it helps improve the educational program."

The primary duty of Mr. Grile is to see that the schools operate within the policies and rules established by the Board of School Trustees. To do this, he must work with the people who make the policies, and with all the people who assist in carrying out those policies.

"I suppose I should say that school, in addition to being my job, is also my hobby. I do take time to read for relaxation, but there is very little time to improve my golf score."

The PTA Officers for the 1965-66 school year are: Mr. George Kinne, Pres., Miss Ruth Endaley, 2nd V-Pres., Mrs. John Negelsen, Sec., Mrs. Richard Becker, V-Pres., and Mrs. George Kinne, Pres. Mrs. Warren Hastings was absent when the picture was taken.

Mr. Grile enjoys the humorous memories of past years presented by the Class of 1966 at the Senior Banquet.

Counselors Purpose Remedies to Student Dilemmas

Many students, sometime during the year, met counselors Miss Sandra Todd, Mr. Charles Hinton, Mr. Max Updike, and Mr. Robert Traster. They were willing to assist the pupils at all times and concerning all problems; Redskins could talk of difficulties dealing with home or school.

Miss Todd, as new dean of girls, was responsible for their attendance and discipline. She planned and conducted specified assemblies, college testings, and extra-curricular activities.

In addition to obligations as dean of boys, Mr. Hinton also distributed materials to the teachers, gave citizenship awards to students, and improved safety for the students around Domeland.

Mr. Updike was the guidance coordinator. It was his duty to enroll new pupils, change class schedules, sign students up for driver education, and see that home room procedures were followed.

Mr. Robert Traster served as athletic manager, planning all sport events and pep session. He also supervised ticket sales.

As guidance coordinator, Mr. Max Updike must change class schedules to meet the needs of the students.

As Deans, Miss Sandra Todd and Mr. Charles Hinton must discuss the discipline problems of students.

Mr. Traster, as athletic manager, checks the grades of all athletes to be sure they are passing in four solids.

Mrs. Emmerson and Mr. Schoonover enjoy the "surprises" they receive at the annual Faculty Christmas Party.

Cooks, Custodians Make School Life More Pleasant

With the aid of 25 women, Mrs. Marjorie Paris was able to enlarge the plate lunch and the a la carte lines to accommodate the increased number of students in each lunch period. The main activity of Mrs. Paris and her helpers was planning and preparing enough food, which ranged from casseroles to soups and sandwiches, to serve over 1700 students when the noon hour bells finally rang.

During the summer months, if one were to visit the school, he would see the custodians busily practicing their handicraft. It is the responsibility of the custodians not only to sweep and clean up after students during the school year, but also to develop their skills at remodeling after the halls of Domeland have been deserted for vacations.

The custodians are Oscar Buettner, Hubert Bender, Fred Niemeyer, Carl Frankenstein, Ralph Eloph, Jesse Hardz. Those who were absent when the picture was taken are Gene Lampe, Alonzo Osborne, and Cecil Siberts.

CLASSES

By nature man is a social being. Life around the dome provides many opportunities for making friends. Being on an 8 to 3 schedule makes it easier for students to get together and enjoy each other's company. Walk down North's halls anytime and you can hear an enthusiastic "Hi!" being yelled down a stairwell; or casually pass through the cafeteria at about 7 a.m. and you'll see friends grouped together and having fun simply because they're together. It's these things that make one school something special to each and every one of its students. At North that something special is eating together, studying together, having fun together, and most important of all-learning together.

As sophomores, entering the dome with many misgivings and differing

Shinning up a flagpole is an unusual sight on school grounds, but on the first day when sophomores are being initiated and seniors are walking the red carpet, almost anything can happen. Being former Redskins, we found the dome a familiar sight when we

Electing our class officers was our first senior concern upon returning

We began our Senior year with the slogan "Class of '66, Biggest and Best," and fulfilled this ideal through the entire year. Following the tradition set forth last year, we planted eight rose bushes around the football field. Jay Dee Martin, Mike Harper, Pam Loper, and Dave Higgins, along with the class sponsors, assisted the class officers in planning the social events of the year. The Senior Senate, consisting of one girl and one boy from each senior homeroom, was formed to gain the interest of more students in class activities.

Closing our high school years, we piled experience upon experience and thus knowledge upon knowledge. True, our knowledge is limited, and our experiences have been few; but with this small bit of wisdom, we face our futures — establishing our goals as the Class of 1966.

Elected to lead the Class of 1966 are, seated: Penny Winkler, social chairman; Stacey Needham, secretary-treasurer; Pam Loper, social council. Standing: Bob Vegeler, vice-president; Peter Meister, president; Jay Dee Martin, social council; Dave Higgins, social council; and Mike Harper, social council.

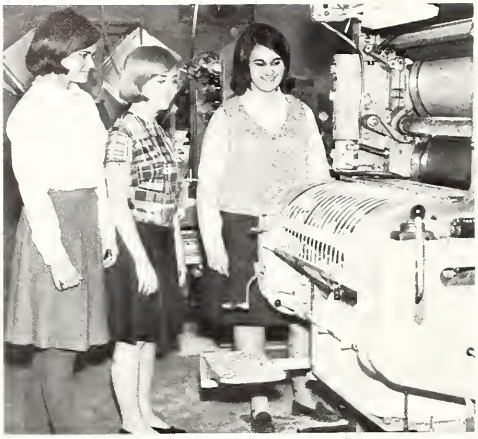
Advertising

Advertising is one way in which the public is informed of the merchandise and services various organizations have available. This section of the yearbook is developed around the many shops and business organizations which have given financial assistance to the 1966 Legend through their advertising. The students of North Side show their gratitude to these community businesses by their continued patronage. This willingness of the students to patronize the merchaants of the community maintains a mutual support between those at North Side High School and the residents of Fort Wayne.



Marty Duncan, Jan Scott, and Janet Olofson are engrossed in watching the operations of a printing press at Keefer's.

SENIOR DOOR

Closing

As the end of the year approaches and we prepare to go our separate ways, we accumulate final impressions and memories which we want to last forever. We have gathered these memories in the 1966 Legend in the hope that in the future it will revive the sad moments, the happy moments, and the frustrations and joys of this school year.

For its valuable help in organizing the remembrances of the year, we especially thank our staff and acknowledge their hard work, loyalty and courage. Also for their valuable assistance, we thank our advisor, Miss Norma Thiele, and the administration. Our work is done and the 1966 Legend is left for you to enjoy.

Marilyn and Cyndy
